

“I need to surrender an animal...What do I do?”

In addition to our shelter, the Humane Society of Indianapolis would like to offer the following resources as options to surrender a stray or your own pet for adoption. Stray animals should be brought to the animal control facility in the county they were found in to maximize their chances of being reunited with their owners. Unless otherwise noted, the shelters listed below will only accept animals from their county/area. Individual policies and procedures may vary from shelter to shelter, so we encourage you to contact them for information. Please call our “Here to Help” line at 317-872-5650 x.126 if you have any questions, or to make an appointment.
